

ASX RELEASE – 28 January 2010

Update on MRS Litigation

E-health and connectivity solutions provider ICSGlobal Limited (ASX: ICS) purchased Medical Recovery Services, Inc. (MRS) from Ms Donna Murphy effective 31 December 2008. As part of the purchase arrangements, Ms Murphy entered into a minimum three year employment agreement including rigorous non-compete provisions.

As previously disclosed to the market, in order to protect the interests of ICSGlobal shareholders, Thelma-US, the 100% owner of MRS, has filed legal proceedings against Ms Murphy and three of her family relatives, claiming breach of contract, fraud and damages, among other things.

In response to the claim filed by Thelma-US, Ms Murphy and three of her relatives have sued ICSGlobal and three executive officers. The claim alleges that two executive officers of the ICSGlobal Group committed libel and slander. A further claim filed by Ms Murphy alleges that ICSGlobal Limited and two of its executive officers committed fraud in the inducement and tortious interference with business relations.

ICSGlobal and its US legal adviser believe that the claims are without merit.

The board is extremely disappointed by the actions of Ms Murphy and her relatives, and continues to take aggressive action to protect the interests of ICSGlobal shareholders in this matter.

About ICSGlobal

Founded in 1990, ICSGlobal listed on the Australian Stock Exchange in 1999 [ASX:ICS] as an "eCommerce enabler".

In 2000 we focused on making the Australian healthcare industry more efficient, building and operating an Internet-based clearinghouse called "Thelma". Thelma went live in Australia in 2000 and since then volume has continued to grow at over 50% per annum. In 2007 the Thelma service was expanded to "medical banking": combining internet technologies and outsourced "accounts receivable" services to shift healthcare administration into the realm of online banking. ICSGlobal established a medical banking beachhead in the UK market by acquiring Medical Billing & Collection (MBC) in 2007, which is now the UK's leading company in the outsourced patient billing services sector. A beachhead was established in US in 2008 through the acquisition of Medical Recovery Services, Inc. (MRS).

In 2009 we launched a connectivity solutions and consultancy division, Cybrand, which utilises the skills sets and technologies that grew out of the Thelma project to connect businesses, and the people within them, with the information systems they need to do things better, faster, cheaper.
