

ASX RELEASE - 14 JULY 2004

Navy Health signs up for THELMA

Navy Health, the private health fund for the Royal Australian Navy, their families, all ADF Reservists, all civilian contractors/suppliers that provide goods and services to the ADF, and ex-serving members of the ADF, have signed a three year User Agreement to use THELMA.

Navy Health is another one of the 23 health funds that use the HAMBS member management software preparing to go live with electronic hospital claims delivered via THELMA.

Mr John Rashleigh, the Managing Director of Navy Health said "Navy Health has undergone significant restructuring during the year in response to the rapidly changing health landscape in Australia and it is timely for us now to deploy e-commerce initiatives such as THELMA to add further value to our members by improved services and lower health care transaction costs."
